Titles

Alliance for American Quilts interview collection 1999-2016

Project title: Quilters' S.O.S. -- Save Our Stories

Form/Genre

- Interviews (Sound recordings).
- Interviews.
- Manuscripts.
- Oral histories.
- Photographs.
- Video recordings.

Arrangement

The materials are conceptually arranged in two series: 1. Administrative files and 2. Interviews. The Interviews series is arranged in record groups for each Quilters' S.O.S. -- Save Our Stories (QSOS) project, and further subdivided into subseries for each interview. Each interview is presented with associated sound recordings, documents, and images. To avoid confusion in cases where multiple duplicative digital files were received for a given piece of content, such as a sound recording which has been saved in multiple file types, or an image for which there are several duplicates, only one file is listed in the finding aid.

Interviews are identified based on the ID number assigned by the Quilt Alliance. Generally, these IDs are formed by assigning the state abbreviation and zip code of the quilter's home, followed by a number indicating the order in which the interview occurred. For example, "CA94121-002" would be the 2nd interview performed in the California zip code of 94121. In some cases, instead of a location-based ID, an acronym is used to indicate the project that the interview was a part of. For example, "BOQ-003" is the 3rd interview in the "Barack Obama Quilt" project. Just as often, there may be some combination of acronym and zip code, as is the case with all Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) interviews.

For alphabetical list of Interviewees with associated interview numbers, see Appendix A.

For alphabetical list of Interviewers, see Appendix B.

Acquisition

Quilt Alliance; 2007 to 2016.

Custodial History

From 1999 until January 2007, Quilt Alliance partnered with the University of Delaware, Center for Material Culture Studies, under the guidance of Dr. Bernard Herman, to house QSOS records. Since January 2007, the American Folklife Center has served as the repository for QSOS interview materials.

Accruals

Major accruals were received by the American Folklife Center from the Quilt Alliance in 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2013. The final accrual is expected in 2016.

Processing History

The physical materials were processed according to material type. The manuscript material is organized in the order of arrival at the American Folklife Center archive, with the exception of the Trinity Valley Quilters' Guild interviews which was reorganized in order to be grouped with the three large quilt shows located at the beginning of the manuscript series. The arrangement and folder titles mirror the system which was created by the Quilt Alliance. Sound recordings on cassette tapes were assigned unique sound recording (SR) numbers and organized in the same order as the manuscripts. Compact disks, 3.5 in. floppy disks and zip disks were assigned computer file (CF) numbers and are stored by material type. All digital files have been copied from the original carriers. Additionally, erence copies of all digital images contained on the electronic media were printed out in black and white and placed in the relevant interview folders.

The collection contains interviews conducted from 1999-2016. As new materials were received, the installments were not interfiled but were rehoused and arranged in the same fashion as previous installments.

Copyright Status

Duplication of collection materials may be governed by copyright and other restrictions.

Preferred Citation

Quilt Alliance, Quilters' S.O.S. -- Save Our Stories interview collection (AFC 2007/009), Archive of Folk Culture, American Folklife Center, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.

Administrative History

The Quilt Alliance (formerly The Alliance for American Quilts) was formed in 1993 Shelly Zegart and Eunice Ray of the Kentucky Quilt Project, and Karey Bresenhan and Nancy O'Bryant, corporate officers of Quilts, Inc. and founders of the non-profit Texas Quilt Search, who saw the need to centralize information about quilts and quilting.

In the fall of 1999, the Quilters' S.O.S. -- Save Our Stories (QSOS) project was introduced by the Quilt Alliance and the International Quilt Festival (IQF). The initial training and interviews took place at the International Quilt Festival in Houston, Texas, in October of 1999. Former Quilt Alliance board members, Bernard Herman, Marcie Cohen Ferris, Patricia Keller and Patricia Crews developed the QSOS project. Karen Musgrave joined the group at the initial training and served for many years as a dedicated volunteer and QSOS taskforce chair.

The initial project was such a tremendous success that it was continued, with many additional volunteers spearheading regional QSOS projects, conducting interviews at quilt shows, guild meetings, and private homes across the country and around the world. Of note, one of these organizations is the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), a non-profit, non-political volunteer women's organization founded in 1890 in Washington, D.C. In 2004 the DAR created a special position on their American Heritage Committee for QSOS, and has official representation on the Task Force of the Quilt Alliance.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of sound recordings, transcripts and photographic images documenting interviews conducted as a part of Quilters' S.O.S. -- Save Our Stories (QSOS) project. QSOS is one of several projects and partnerships created by the Quilt Alliance in an effort to preserve, document, and share the lives and stories of quilters and quilting. The project began in 1999 and continued through 2016.

QSOS is a grassroots project that utilizes volunteers from across the country to conduct and transcribe oral histories. Interviews are approximately 45 minutes in length and are usually conducted in person, but occasionally are conducted by phone or via e-mail.

Interviewees are encouraged to bring a "touchstone" quilt or other object to serve as a focus point for the interview. Rather than record comprehensive life histories, focused interviews target the conversation, for example, on quilt design, sources, techniques, inspiration, standards, and processes, along with other quilt-related topics.

The quilts represented in the collection vary widely in technique, style, and execution. Some are self-designed, while some follow traditional patterns or patterns by current designers. There are also historical quilts that date back to the mid-nineteenth to early twenty-first century. Among the quilt types seen in the collection are: hand quilts, machine-quilts (including long arm), traditional pattern quilts, scrap quilts, art quilts, round robin quilts, patriotic quilts and wearable art.

The QSOS project documents the complexity and diversity of quiltmakers and their quilts, creating a broadly accessible body of information concerning quilting, both present-day and in living memory.

As of November 2016 the collection includes 1189 interviews, with all fifty US states, the United States Virgin Islands, and nine other countries represented including: Australia, Canada, Denmark, Georgia (Republic), Germany, Japan, Kenya, Peru, and Russia. The interviews are documented by sound recordings, transcripts and images, in a mix of physical and digital formats.

Earlier sound recordings of the interviews are largely on cassette tapes, with later interviews recorded on digital media in .wav, .wma, .mp3, .aif, and .cda formats. The images include both physical photographic prints and digital images in .jpg and .tif formats.

The majority of interviews have an associated draft and/or final versions of the transcript. The manuscripts associated with the interviews may also consist of a participant and quilt information form, correspondence, and promotional materials. These documents may be in a physical print format or in digital media in .doc, .docx, .pdf, or .rtf formats.

Digital media was received on a variety of carrier formats including compact disks, 3.5 in. floppy disks and zip disks.

PROJECT

The Uncommon Threads QSOS

Gayle Pritchard conducted these interviews for her book Uncommon Threads (Ohio University Press, 2006). These interviews were not conducted as Quilters' S.O.S. - Save Our Stories interviews. However, we felt that the spirit of the interviews and the valuable information shared warranted inclusion in the project.
