Summary: This special map collection was culminated by map librarian Ethel M. Fair (1884-1979). It consists of pictorial maps produced in several formats, and ranges in period from the 1840s to the 1960s. Some are cartoon maps, while others are cartographs. Unusual formats include maps on place mats, napkins, table cloths, and handkerchiefs. The collection contains mostly tourist maps, road maps, educational maps, and commercial maps. The majority of the maps depict North America, but other areas are represented. There are early facsimiles and some maps that are undated, but most of these appear to have been produced between 1920s and 1950s. A number of the maps were created by female cartographers, who were of special interest to Fair.

Scope and Content Note

Consists chiefly of twentieth-century pictorial maps, views, and facsimiles collected by map librarian Ethel M. Fair (1884-1979). Formats include place mats, napkins, postcards, Christmas cards, blotters, table cloths, handkerchiefs, and bookplates. Maps are from around the world with an emphasis on North America.

Accompanied by portrait, professional information, obituary, and photocopy of article about the collection.

Arrangement of the Collection

The collection is organized into a single series. The maps are arranged according to Fair's numbering system (EMF). Within the G&M Reading Room is a set of subject cards that can be used to browse the collection. The maps range in numbers from 1 to 902; however, there are only 889 maps. Whether maps are missing or if Fair skipped numbers is unascertained.
